Having turned the captivity of Sion away from error, do Thou, O Saviour, quicken me also, delivering me from slavery to the passions.

In the south, he that soweth afflictions and fastings with tears, the same shall reap sheaves of joy of everlasting nourishment.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.
Both now and ever, and unto the ages of ages.

In the Holy Spirit is there the source of divine treasures. From Him cometh wisdom, understanding, and fear; to Him is due praise, glory, honour, and domination.

Except the Lord build the house of the soul, in vain do we labour; for without Him, neither act nor word is accomplished.

Moved by the Spirit, the Saints, the reward of the fruit of the womb, bring forth as fruit their Father's doctrines of appointment.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.
Both now and ever, and unto the ages of ages.

In the Holy Spirit all things have existence; for He is God before all things, Lord of all, Light unapproachable, the Life of all.

They that fear the Lord, in that they have found the paths of life, now and ever are blessed with undeciled glory.
See-ing thine off-spring round a-bout thy ta-ble as branch-es, re-joice and be glad, of-fer-ing them to Christ, O chief shep-herd.

Glo-ry to the Fa-ther, and to the Son, and to the Ho-ly Spir-it.

Both now and ev-er, and un-to the ag-es of ages. A-men.

In the Ho-ly Spir-it there is a depth of gifts, a wealth of glo-ry, a great a-byss of judg-ments; for
He is to be worshipped as one in glory with the Father and the Son.

A - rise, O Lord my God, let Thy hand be lifted high; forget not Thy paupers to the end.

I will confess Thee, O Lord, with my whole heart, I will tell of all Thy wonders.

A - rise, O Lord my God, let Thy hand be lifted.
high; forget not Thy pau-pers to the end.

* According to some traditions, the second half of this final verse is completed by the other choir.
